CHILE: The details of President Allende's recently announced travel plans appear to have been determined. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] the president will begin a two-week trip about 28 November. He will first stop in Mexico and next visit the UN General Assembly in New York. He will then proceed to Moscow before returning home by way of Cuba. Interior Minister General Prats will be the acting chief executive during his absence. [REDACTED] expect that President Allende will find an occasion to meet with US officials. [REDACTED]
